Comrades!

Standing in this place summarizing the days of our most severe quarantine war yet, the various events of the past 91 days are burned into my mind once again, and words cannot describe the passion that swept through me since I was informed that the fever that immediately grasped the nation, was a virulent contagious disease.

From the moment he was informed that the fever that swept across the whole country in an instant was none other than a malignant epidemic, the Marshal, who has struggled so hard, couldn't let his heart rest for a moment until this day. How could I tell you everything in a few thousand words?

In the face of a crisis the country was experiencing for the first time in its history, everyone was silent, and not a single official was willing to offer even a single suggestion on the issue.

Unfortunately, I can't forget the moments when he stood alone and by himself in front of the crisis, sometimes bewildered, sometimes disappointed, and when I saw him so desperate, my stomach felt as if it were burning since I couldn't relieve him of the heavy burden on his shoulders.

During this period, in order to protect and maintain the precious lives of the people, the Marshal convened daily meetings of the Political Bureau of the Party Central Committee, directly coming up with measures and methods ranging from one to ten, and visited battlefields of prevention and control day and night, giving us clear strategies.

Who on earth can imagine that in the 91 days of hardship reminiscent of the War, the number of documents used by our Marshal to guide the country's quarantine projects alone was 1 172 items and 22 956 pages?

Those days of the Marshal's agonizing pain and labor were piling up, now elevating this country has to the high platform it stands on today!

We have such a father who has always shared the people's fate, and even risked his own fate and life to protect us. With such a leader protecting this country, we have been able to create miracles even in this quarantine war.

Comrades!

The Marshal, though suffering from high fever during the days of the quarantine war, could not lie down for even a moment because of the thought of the people for whom he had to take responsibility until the end, and that these people, though suffering from a terrible fever, had absolute confidence that they could overcome death and live unconditionally because they had the Marshal among them.

The people's victory against the disease, filled with immortal confidence, made me realize once again that the affection, trust, and confidence between the leader and the people is the irresistible force that nothing in this world can destroy, the decisive factor and the absolute power behind this miracle and our victory.

Because the Marshal first heard the people's voices in pain, he aroused the party and government with his fiery appeal, erecting the quarantine system and discipline of this country. The quarantine policy was accurately implemented, and as the people of the Party and country, we firmly believed that if we do as instructed and unconditionally follow the measures taken by the state and stand together more resolutely around the Party, we will surely win this quarantine war.

We, the cadres of our party, have firmly pledged our will to serve faithfully the people in such a wonderful way, saw the true appearance of our society, which can be found nowhere else in the world, where all people show a noble spirit of sacrifice, helping families in difficulty and pain, offering themselves to rescue others, sharing life and death in trials and suffering, and everyone becomes a beautiful hero of virtue and style.

Under the energetic and meticulous guidance of the respected Marshal, who taught us step by step, from the project of raising awareness of the Party and state's quarantine policy to the broadcasting of a compilation introducing treatment methods and common medical knowledge, all the people demonstrated the belief and will of victory.

We have mobilized all our propaganda and agitation forces to refine and boldly overcome the quarantine crisis, and have gained new experiences and set examples to fulfill our role as a high-powered loudspeaker and a reliable amplifier faithful to the Party Central Committee.

In our country, we are told that an enemy even more formidable than the malignant virus is unscientific fear, a lack of faith, and a weak will. The strong organizational power of the united people and the high political consciousness and high awareness of the people, cultivated and built through the prolonged emergency quarantine struggle, have enabled us to take bold and electrifying measures to reverse the crisis situation.

With the outstanding leadership of our great leader who took bold and electrifying measures to reverse the crisis situation, our country and our people have been able to embrace the morals of the century, an embrace that has brought about the fastest resolution possible to unprecedented health crisis.

Today's proud achievements once again confirm that with the wise leadership of the Party Central Committee, we are not afraid of any calamity and will surely prevail further demonstrating the fundamental strength of our country, where the Party and the people are united!

Comrades!

We, who were the first on this planet to wipe out the malicious virus, have a strong philosophy that we are reminded of with great pride.

This quarantine struggle was not just a fight against a malicious virus.

It was an extension of the fierce class struggle in which it's about who-whom.

The enemy, who sharpens his sword while threatening the existence of our state and the lives of our people, is maneuvering right before our eyes every hour of every day, without limit to its vile and vicious methods.

The national crisis we have experienced this time was clearly brought about by the anti-Republic madness of our enemies, who used the global health crisis as an opportunity to attempt to crush our country.

Our enemies try to hide their criminal acts and to shift the blame for their crimes with sophistry, but the truth cannot be hidden.

We have clearly documented how viciously the puppet conservative party is working behind the scenes with the subhuman, subanimal scum who spearheaded the vicious leafleting campaign.

The current puppet government is so afraid of our reaction of 2020 when we blew up the North-South Joint Liaison Office that it went so far as to confiscate the leaflet distribution equipment collected by the puppet government at that time and even tried to introduce the "Anti-Broadcasting Law Against the North" which was enacted only as a formality.

The World Health Organization has already studied virus survival on various object surfaces and found that people can be infected if they touch their eyes, nose or mouth after touching food, items, object surfaces, or wrapping paper contaminated with the virus.

At a time when many countries around the world were well aware of the risk of spreading an infectious disease through contact with objects contaminated with malicious viruses and were seeking more effective quarantine measures, South Koreans were sending papers, leaflets, money, vicious brochures, and other objects to our southern provinces. It is very worrisome to play a game of being drawn in.

It is the accepted view of the international community that virulent viruses can also be transmitted through objects, so disinfection of the surfaces of objects should be strengthened.

This scientific clarification does not change just because someone denies it!

The fact that an area so close to the front line is the site of the initial outbreak, as we explained a short time ago in our epidemic outbreak history, is deeply alarming and makes us suspicious of the South Koreans, who, in the circumstances and history, all too clearly point to one place, so it is not surprising that we see the strange thing as a vector for a viral outbreak.

It is an undeniable reality that a single person infected with a virus, or a single contaminated object can infect millions of people in an instant and cause a major quarantine crisis.

This scientific view leads us to the conclusion that we cannot stand by and watch the reality of the continuous influx of filth from the South Korean region forever.

This is clearly a crime against humanity.

The problem is that puppets are still pouring in leaflets and wasteful objects on an ongoing basis.

We are obligated to protect the lives of our precious children, but they have violated the lives and safety of our people, who have suffered too great a loss and paid too high a price.

The main culprits who brought anxiety and pain to the millions of parents in this country who have been protecting their precious children's lives, enduring every bottleneck and pain with sorrow, are the vicious people living in the South, just like demons.

What a terrifying cloud of death has floated over our people's heads by the mischiefs done by them. How many people suffered from high fever and pain, and how many people struggled with anxiety and pity for fear of losing their loved ones and relatives?

Thinking about that time, our people are trembling with soaring anger against their enemies and are now clenching their fists for revenge.

We have thoroughly eradicated the virus that these scum have spread.

We must take a strong response.

Several countermeasures are already being considered, but the response must also be a very strong retaliatory response.

If the enemy continues to do dangerous things that can introduce viruses into our republic, we will respond by eradicating not only the virus, but also the source, the South Korean authorities.

Now is the time for us to have a different attitude towards the enemy and the South.

They are the ones who act for their allies before acting for their own people. There is no greater act of self-destruction than to be so obsessed with kinship confrontations that one assumes that those in the South hate themselves.

If we forget the lessons that our previous generations carved into the mountains and rivers of our country with their bloody cries, the eyes of the class will be blinded to distinguish friend from foe, and the tragedy of a history filled with resentment will be repeated.

We will never repeat that bloody lesson again.

The South Korean puppets are our unchanging enemy, and the fundamental factor that determines the victory or defeat of the revolutionary struggle is class consciousness.

The cadres of the propaganda department of the Party will firmly defend this land as an unshakable citadel of the class and a precious resting place where we the people can live in peace and health, by developing the class culture more intensely and more aggressively so that the erupting rage of all the people, the rage that is rising like an active volcano, will be further inflamed.

With an extraordinary mission to defend the ideological front and a sense of responsibility heavier than ever, we will prepare all people to be vanguard fighters of the class with a penetrating view of the main enemy and an uncompromising fighting spirit against the class enemy to be ruthless avengers and further strengthen the firepower of the ideological project, so that the will for vengeance and punishment filling our hearts will lead directly to brilliant results in enforcing the Party's decisions at the workplace and on the guard post.

Therefore, I am determined that the precious gains made in the struggle against the epidemic will serve as a new turning point to further consolidate the political and ideological power of the Party and the revolutionary ranks and advance our revolutionary cause more vigorously.

Press Statement Published by the Korean Central News Agency

August 19, 2022

It would have been more favorable for his image to shut his mouth, rather than to talk nonsense, as he had nothing better to

I am talking about Yoon Suk Yeol's "commemorative speech marking August 15".

In his situation where he is losing public support, it would have been better if he had never presented himself on that occasion.

I'm only saying this today because the south seems to be very eager to know of our reaction, and not because I'm concerned of Yoon's situation, as even a mere child would know.

If he had really wanted to take the platform, I'm curious to know how much effort he had put in to his speech to be unable to say anything that would save his dignity.

This time, Yoon focused on clamoring about "a course of building a free country by fighting against communist forces" and "defending the free world by facing against communist invasion" and inciting confrontation between systems.

Although I'm sorry to say this, dogs will always bark, as a pup or an adult, and the same goes for the one with the title of "president".

The most repulsive point was when he recited absurd words impertinently of proposing us a "bold and broad-based plan" to radically improve the economy and public welfare if we would stop nuclear development and turn towards substantial denuclearization.

With the person who had at one time pretended to be a "driver", questioning the public, gone, another who also lives in his own world has appeared to sit upon the throne.

Although he seemed to have gone through a lot of troubles after pretending to have a plan on improving the north-south relations during his "inaugural address" in May and then explaining it to the U.S. and neighboring countries to explain himself and asking for understanding and support for it, the "plan" he had laid down this time is truly absurd.

All the ridiculous remarks uttered by the so-called "president" really make the south look marvelous only.

Is a certain Yoon the only person who could be elected as "president"?

"Bold plan?"

In a word, I can explain why it is absurd.

His "bold plan" is the height of absurdity as it is an impracticable one to create mulberry fields in the dark blue ocean.

He disregarded the other party's attitude towards the plan and the comments which will be made on it by those grasping the situation of the inter-Korean ties. I could not but be stunned by his "bravery" and excessive ignorance.

I'd love to give some advice.

The "bold plan" is not a new one, but a replica of "denuclearization, opening and 3 000" raised by traitor Lee Myung Bak 10-odd years ago only to be forsaken as a product of the confrontation with fellow countrymen, far from attracting the attention of world people.

The fact that he copied the policy towards the north, thrown into the dustbin of history, and called it a "bold plan" shows that he is really foolish.

I'm not sure that he knows that his assumption "if the north took a measure for denuclearization" was a wrong prerequisite.

All the predecessors in the south and even their master the U.S. failed to "make the north abandon nukes", but he uttered pipedream-like remarks, which made him look so miserable as we wondered why he quickly read the text that must have been written wrong, not knowing what it means.

All can not be bartered. To think that the plan to barter "economic cooperation" for our honor, our nukes, is the great dream, hope and plan of Yoon, we came to realize that he is really simple and still childish.

He, who came to power, would take two or three years to know well the law of the world and the situation while working hard.

No one barter their destiny for corn cake.

Bitter contempt is what we will only show those spinning a pipedream to succeed in making us abandon our nukes if they pay more stakes.

It would be advisable to mind their own business if they can find time to spare, not talking about the north-south issue.

They would have no time to talk about someone's "economy" and improvement of "people's livelihood" since they may be ousted anytime for their spoiled economy and public welfare.

Those villains seriously encroaching on our security circumstance by continuing to infiltrate dirty waste into our territory talk about "food supply" and "medical assistance" to inhabitants in the north. Such deeds will only incite our people's surging hatred and wrath.

A knave who talks about a "bold plan" today and stages anti-north war exercises tomorrow is none other than "mastermind" Yoon Suk Yeol.

It is our earnest desire to live without awareness of each other.

Before evaluating the south Korean authorities' "policy toward the north", we don't like Yoon Suk Yeol himself.

Though he may knock at the door with what large plan in the future as his "bold plan" will not work, we make it clear that we will not sit face to face with him.

It would be good for Yoon Suk Yeol to ponder over what serious threat the reckless confrontational remarks his hirelings have made irregularly and ignorantly will bring.

Yoon should not forget our advice even a moment that it would be good never to stand face to face with us.

In addition, we made it clear that the previous day's weapon test was conducted on the "Kumsong Bridge" in Anju City of South Phyongan Province, not the Onchon area the south Korean authorities announced rashly and talkatively.

I am curious to know why those always talking about the pursuit surveillance and full preparedness under the close cooperation between south Korea and U.S. could not indicate the launching time and place properly and why they do not open to the public data on the weapon system.

If the data and flight trajectory are known, the south will be so bewildered and afraid. And it will be a thing worthy of seeing how they will explain about it before their people.

PRESS STATEMENT OF KIM YO JONG, DEPUTY
DEPARTMENT DIRECTOR OF THE CENTRAL COMMITTEE OF THE WORKERS' PARTY OF KOREA

November 22, 2022

The UN Security Council held an open meeting on the 21st at the instigation of the United States, taking issue with the test-firing of the new-type intercontinental ballistic missile "Hwasongpho-17" of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea.

It is a clear double standard that the UN Security Council doggedly ignored very dangerous military exercises of the United States and south Korea against the DPRK and their excessive arms buildup but touched our exercise of the sacred right of self-defence corresponding to them.

What is ridiculous is that as soon as the open meeting of the UN Security Council was over, the United States showed up with the rabble from Britain, France, Australia, Japan and south Korea without hiding its displeasure and gave vent to its indignation at the failure in realizing their dishonest attempt while making public a disgusting "joint statement" in front of them.

The scene is reminiscent of a dog barking with fear.

Our government strongly denounces such rash act of the United States and the reactionaries following it as a gross infringement upon our sovereignty and a grave political provocation of bringing the situation of the Korean peninsula to a new phase of crisis.

We will never pardon those slandering the exercise of sovereignty for defending the security of the state but take the toughest countermeasures against them to the end.

The United States must bear in mind that no matter how desperately it may try to disarm us, it can never touch our sovereignty and the harder it resorts to its hostile acts against the DPRK, the more fatal security crisis it will face.

PRESS STATEMENT OF KIM YO JONG, DEPUTY
DEPARTMENT DIRECTOR OF THE CENTRAL COMMITTEE OF

December 20, 2022

Kim Yo Jong, vice department director of the Central Committee of the Workers' Party of Korea, issued the following press statement on Tuesday:

I am getting bored and tired of hearing the bark of the south Korean puppets who have the bad habit of finding fault with others.

Even in the end of the year, they continue to pull us up, not content with finding fault with us from the beginning of the year.

It seems to be an endemic disease in south Korea that all those always doubt about and slander everything done by us.

I have not cared about their slandering as I have become used to it, but I cannot but make a few words to reveal their unreasonable gossip as they are absorbed in speaking ill of us.

I have a strong urge to give a blow to those chattering, and I don't know what to say first.

Those who have tongue belittled our yesterday's report on an important test for developing a reconnaissance satellite.

Yesterday I watched a lot of so-called experts competitively saying words in a row. As always, they were like a kind of chattering sparrow.

Over the quality of the satellite photos, they were absorbed in expressing their own views all day long, telling that they are "inferior", "it is not useful as the earth observation satellite far from military satellite" and "it is not believed to be a real photo and there can be deception". Those so-called experts seem to have nothing to say without news that we give, and I am "concerned" that they can get salary properly there.

Have you ever thought that it was too inadequate and imprudent to judge our capabilities for developing a satellite and preparations for it with the two photos taken by the test-type panchromatic camera which we posted in the newspaper?

The so-called experts were so keen on finding fault with others that they could not but make such senseless words.

We definitely set up a test camera on the satellite test piece and conducted such necessary test as altitude control and in appropriate space flight environment and photography control command, reliability of ground control and operation of data transmission devices, data encryption processing technology, technique of synthesizing vertical and oblique photography data, and informed our people of the significant and satisfactory test results as they were.

Then, why do the south Korean puppets think that we made public the test results for them to see and do they really think that we have published the low-resolution photo to be bitterly criticized by someone?

It is the starting point of a wrong view and thinking of what they call experts in south Korea.

Someone, commenting that our announcement was a hasty one, let loose a sheer nonsense that we were probably "stimulated by the development of their first reconnaissance satellite".

Think in a rational way with common sense.

Who will install and test an expensive high-resolution camera for a single-shot test which takes no more than 830 seconds.

As far as I know, the National Aerospace Development Administration has set it as the main purpose of the test to check the control of the camera operation command with the main focus on oblique side photography, not on the vertical-down track, with a commercial camera adapted for the test and to receive and analyze images and various kinds of measurements at ground observation posts.

The publication fully showed the clear mode and results of the test. But the so-called experts only got wild to depreciate others, saying that "the date of the photo taken is unknown" and they are "still analyzing" it and that it "could be the deceptive farce" in an "inferior level" about our photos published, just to reveal their level of commenting and ability of thinking.

It is only when they have common sense and ground of argument to some extent to slander someone that their "people" would believe in.

I want to know if the "people" will be taken in by such nonsense and rubbish.

"Inferior level"? I have already seen their evil nature before hearing their malicious criticism.

I heard that they got very curious about the number of vehicles we fired, so I want to tell them the facts.

Two vehicles were fired from, the first known to have tested whether the ground control station track and receive the signals sent by the transmitter and the second to conduct the relevant test which has been already opened to public.

I think there's no more question.

I am wondering what those, who are now so desperate to depreciate our technical ability, would say to slander us when our military satellite is in operation anytime soon.

And of course, they will have absolutely nothing to say except that an unidentified flying object has entered orbit but nothing has been confirmed to perform its action as a satellite.

Something else that I am curious about is whether if they, together with their military hooligans, will say, as they have so often done, that it is just a "satellite-loaded" long-range missile meant to perfect the DPRK's development of its long-range missile technology.

And that is even after witnessing the test-fire of our ICBM just before.

A puppet expert even repeated the unreasonable words that a long-range missile and a satellite carrier rocket are similar in terms of their properties. Exactly so. Can you launch a satellite into orbit with a balloon, and not a carrier rocket?

If we were to develop an ICBM, we test-fire it undisguised, not as a "satellite carrier" spread by the south Korean puppets to the public.

I'm quite curious to see if the world actually believes any longer of their unpersuasive arguments that we fired a long-range missile on the pretext of a satellite to acquire the long-range missile development technology.

That is because I have never thought for a moment that there is a country that is foolish like the south Korean puppets.

The announced remarks of its military hooligans are more ironic.

That is because they announced that our satellite test-fire carried out the day before yesterday is an intermediate-range ballistic missile.

I would've thought that, as they have so often done, by their exclamations of "complete preparation for counteraction" and "close cooperation between the south Korean and U.S. intelligence authorities", they would be able to distinguish and analyze the test-fire simply from the signal frequency band transmitted from the projectile.

Have they ever announced anything in advance or proven the type of projectile or even the location of our test-fire properly from their "precision tracking" before?

I'm not quite sure if they would remember these; mistaking Ryongrim Dam with Muphyong-ri, saying a test-fire carried out beneath a reservoir is a launchpad around it, mixing up Anju City with Onchon County, etc.

How many times have they actually been frank with themselves? They always say they are "carrying out precision tracking after suspicion in advance" without having any knowledge of anything and cry out routine remarks such as "military secrecy", "opening up military information is not appropriate" and "preparing for complete counteraction" against "added provocation" from "close cooperation between the south Korean and U.S. intelligence authorities".

Does their "people" actually trust them?

The gangsters are so impudent and arrogant to make assertions every time as if they publish the results of the tests conducted by them.

As it can be seen in the photo and report, why should we fire the old missile for scrap without reason if it is not the test for the development of satellite?

Are they going to say again that the missiles are for "provocation"?

They have a lot of issues to depreciate our technical abilities other than the satellite.

ICBM is a part of them.

For several years, the puppet military gangsters and puppet experts have said that our ICBM's atmospheric re-entry has not been recognized and verified, just to comfort themselves. What a gratuitous advice.

I cannot understand why they are so anxious about the reliability of our weapon more than us.

To explain to them who have no common sense, we could not receive remote data of the control warhead until it hit a target if the technology for atmospheric re-entry was imperfect.

Despite my explanation, they will have a "doubt" about our reception.

And I can guess with what they would find fault.

It is clear that they will claim that the successful test of our ICBM can not be proved through high-angle launch but with real angle and that they will impair our strategic weaponry capability with such argument. I can clear up their doubt about it.

They will immediately recognize it in case we launch an ICBM in the way of real angle firing straight off.

I think that they would be well advised to halt their nonsense and think twice.

I recommend them that if they have a time to find fault with other's technical abilities, they had better save their crumbled face at the earliest date possible, not to be ridiculed that they have developed and are equipped with missiles with the range of tens of meters.

What did those of the puppet Ministry of Unification say viciously about our essential test for developing satellites?

They vociferated that "it is the clear violation of the resolutions of the UN Security Council and a grave provocation escalating the tension on the Korean peninsula and threatening peace and stability in the region and that they strongly denounce it", just as they said day and night like automatic answering machine.

Do they think that such foolish remarks can change the event that will happen in the near future?

It is really stupid.

They will make desperate efforts to impose additional sanctions on the DPRK, while clamoring about some kind of international cooperation. At this time when our right to existence and development is being threatened, how can we stop our advance for fear of sanctions that we have experienced abominably, not for the first time.

We make it clear that we will not remain a passive onlooker to any attempt to violate a sovereign state's legitimate right but exercise our bounden rights and retake them at the risk of our lives if necessary.

Moreover, the issue of developing military satellite is an urgent priority task directly related to the security of the DPRK before discussing the legitimate right of a sovereign state.

The puppet Ministry of Unification should be careful in talking.

As we have already mentioned, it would be more beneficial not to repeat the illegal "resolution", never recognized by us, but to get absorbed in the work to stabilize the current situation growing serious by irritating each other's feelings, far from dreaming over the pitiable "bold plan".

To put it flatly, they are not dogs. Then, why do they keep barking only to arouse our anger, without knowing that such deed can never settle any problem. I can not understand what kind of benefit they can get from such barking.

No matter how much sophism they may let loose, our people will never step back from the development of reconnaissance satellite, decided by our Party, at any price.

Look back at the latest events carefully.

We have done all what we are determined to do.
